At St. James Roman Catholic Church in Red Bank, N.J., yesterday Janice Marie Kuzava, the daughter of Viola Robbins of Abingdon, Md., and Walter Kuzava of Lanoka Harbor, N.J., was married to Robert B. Blancato, a son of Dr. and Mrs. Louis Blancato of Pelham, N.Y. The Rev. Paul Norton performed the ceremony.

Mrs. Blancato is a research biologist and a doctoral candidate at Georgetown University, of which her husband is an alumnus.

She graduated from George Washington University. Her father, who is retired, was a machinist for the Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Company in Freehold, N.J.

Mr. Blancato is the legislative director in Washington for Representative Mario Biaggi, Democrat of New York. He is also the staff director of the subcommittee on human services of the House Select Committee on Aging, an adjunct professor at the New School for Social Research School of Gerontology and a candidate for a master's degree in public administration at the American University. His father is chief of the department of anesthesia at the St. Luke's-Roosevelt Hospital Center in New York.
