ST. PAUL, April 20 -- The Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Company said its data recording products division, which has been a supplier of computer tapes and software, had entered the computer hardware business. It said it was producing three compact disk drives with storage capacities of 10, 20 and 60 megabytes, priced between $1,700 and $3,800, and available immediately. The company said it planned to continue developing magnetic recording devices and systems that would "bring about further advanced hardware products, at intervals, for a number of years."
